

University of Colorado Law School

Colorado Law Scholarly Commons

---

Articles

Colorado Law Faculty Scholarship

---

2000

Acknowledgments

Jeremy Paul

University of Connecticut School of Law

Pierre Schlag

University of Colorado Law School

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholar.law.colorado.edu/articles>

Part of the Jurisprudence Commons

---

Citation Information

Jeremy Paul and Pierre Schlag, Acknowledgments, 22 CARDOZO L. REV. xv (2000), available at <https://scholar.law.colorado.edu/articles/602>.

Copyright Statement

Copyright protected. Use of materials from this collection beyond the exceptions provided for in the Fair Use and Educational Use clauses of the U.S. Copyright Law may violate federal law. Permission to publish or reproduce is required.

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Colorado Law Faculty Scholarship at Colorado Law Scholarly Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in Articles by an authorized administrator of Colorado Law Scholarly Commons. For more information, please contact lauren.seney@colorado.edu.

HEINONLINE

Citation: 22 Cardozo L. Rev. xv 2000-2001

Provided by:

William A. Wise Law Library

Content downloaded/printed from HeinOnline

Mon Jun 5 14:21:28 2017

- Your use of this HeinOnline PDF indicates your acceptance of HeinOnline's Terms and Conditions of the license agreement available at <http://heinonline.org/HOL/License>
- The search text of this PDF is generated from uncorrected OCR text.
- To obtain permission to use this article beyond the scope of your HeinOnline license, please use:

Copyright Information

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The publication of a symposium gives the appearance of a series of authors who have mysteriously come together to produce a collection of essays. Almost always missing from the final finished published product is an acknowledgment of the people who produced the mystery.

This will not happen here. This symposium was put together virtually single-handedly by Michael Fischl of the University of Miami School of Law. He recruited the symposiasts, secured financing, arranged housing, accommodation, food, transportation, and a place to actually hold the symposium. Michael served as an intellectual clearinghouse for the various participants. A constant flow of e-mail originating in Miami gently kept the symposiasts informed, on track, and on time.

Michael did this work selflessly, at times consulting symposiasts and graciously accepting or even more graciously rejecting their advice. Throughout, he kept his good humor (and ours).

For all this and more, Michael deserves our thanks. Thanks are also due to Michael's wife, Pam, who put up with a small invasion of the Fischl home by a cast of characters given to talking too loudly, too late into the evening. We also thank Peter Goodrich for helping present the symposium to the Cardozo Law Review and, of course, the Cardozo Law Review itself for once again publishing a mammoth symposium. Finally, thanks as well to the University Miami School of Law for its generous financial support and to Duncan Kennedy for having written the book in the first place.

Jeremy Paul
Pierre Schlag